928-40½-New. Person using convict labor under contract is not liable for nuisances committed by convicts. 194 NC817, 140SE733.
928-40¾-New. Where convicts are leased by the state board of charities and correction to farmers, the farmers take the risk of having on their hands a stockade which they may not need if the state withdraws the convicts, so that such farmers cannot recoup any part of the cost thereof against a suit of the state to collect the amount due for the time the convicts worked. 178Ark662, 128SW(2d)17.
928-40¼-New. In a state's action to recover the amount due for the hire of convicts for a certain year, the court erred in allowing defendant to recoup the loss from being prevented from gathering part of such year's crop as damages for breach of contract in taking the convicts from defendant after permitting it to use them for part of the ensuing year, such damages not being within the reasonable contemplation of the parties when the contract was made. 179Ark43, 148SW(2d)233.
929-83 [a] Surplus of articles to be sold must not compete with free labor. IndA 173NE335.
929-83½-New. The state has implied power to sell and dispose of the commodity produced by convict labor at the penitentiary. 108 Okl 4, 232P807 (contract to manufacture at penitentiary and sell to dealer valid).
929-83¾-New. The use of the revolving prison fund for establishing a manufacturing industry at a state prison is not a misapplication of public funds, nor expenditure of money for which no appropriation has been made. 108 Okl 4, 232P807.
929-83¼-New. A contract to manufacture goods at a state prison and sell them to an individual does not amount to contracting convict labor, forbidden by the constitution. 108 Okl 4, 232P 807.
929-83⅛-New. Convict labor can be used for manufacturing articles to be used by the state, only the surplus to be sold. IndA 173NE335.
929-83¾-New. Statute requiring license for sale of convict goods is inapplicable to state. IndA 173NE335.

1136-3½-New. [§ 1789a] (4). Right Based on Payment to Corporation for Stock. Corporation stockholders who have fully paid for their stock may, upon the insolvency of the corporation, maintain an action for contribution against stockholders who have not fully paid for their stock in order that, in final settlement of corporate affairs, the burden of discharging corporate obligations may rest upon all stockholders in proportion to their respective stock holdings or obligations. 203 Iowa 792, 206NW586.

1136-3½-New. In such a case it is immaterial that all the stockholders were fraudulently induced by the corporation to subscribe for its stock. 203 Iowa792, 206NW586.

1136-3¼-New. In such case the liability of a subscriber for the unpaid portion of his subscription to the creditors of the corporation and to its receiver establishes equality of liability in proportion to their subscriptions with other subscribers which may be enforced by contribution. 203 Iowa792, 206NW586.

1138-31½-New. Venue. An action by one stockholder of an insolvent corporation who has fully paid for his stock for contribution against other stockholders who have not fully paid for their stock in order to equalize the losses between stockholders may be maintained in a county where the corporation and some of the stockholders are residents. 203 Iowa792, 206NW586.

416-41½-New. The equality of representation required by a statute giving boards of supervisors power to change boundaries of supervisional districts but requiring that such districts shall be as nearly equal in population as may be is a fundamental requirement of representative form of government prevailing in states. 195Cal676, 235P445.

416-41⅓-New. Practical equality of population of such districts is not a local matter but is vital part of structure of government established in counties and must be adhered to in order to maintain consistency throughout the state. 195Cal676, 235P445.

416-41¼-New. The constitutional reservation of the initiative power to the electors of counties does not authorize any legislation by the electors in contravention of a statute requiring that supervisorial districts shall be as nearly equal in population as may be, passed by the legislature under its constitutional power to provide a uniform system of county governments. 195Cal676, 235P445.

416-41½-New. The fact that such statute does not mention the electors of a county but refers only to the board of supervisors in limiting the power to change the boundaries of supervisorial districts is immaterial. 195Cal676, 235P445.

416-41⅔-New. Where supervisorial districts are practically equal in population at the time an ordinance establishing their boundaries is passed, subsequent inequalities resulting from movement of population will not render the ordinance invalid. 195Cal676, 235P445.

416-41¾-New. An ordinance changing the boundaries of supervisorial districts which provides for gross inequalities in population is not justified by the fact that it would result in less inequality than presently exists, and that the county should be redistricted so as to avoid present inequalities. 195Cal676, 235P445.
